

Media Release
Feb 19, 2010

TelPay launches its first corporate blog

TelPay is pleased to announce that it now has launched the official TelPay blog. We will be using the blog to provide relevant and timely information related to TelPay, payment processing, electronic cheques, and more. This blog is yet another step towards TelPay becoming a more ñsocialö company which actively engages and interacts with its employees, business partners, and customers on a deeper level.

With the creation of the TelPay blog, it is we will be providing timely articles and information on the world of payment processing, EFT, and electronic cheques. Having over 25 years experience in the payments industry certainly means that we will have plenty to talk about. We will be featuring articles written by TelPay staff, and some of our business experts, as well as some of our partners.

The new TelPay blog is located at <http://info.telpay.ca/blog>

About TelPay - TelPay Incorporated is the largest independent bill and payment processing company and is now a national technology company sending electronic payments across the nation. TelPay provides a unique service to businesses who want to streamline their accounts payable and receivables while offering a wider selection of payment options to their customers.

-END